

CLA BRAND GUIDELINES

FEBRUARY 2026

Logo

The CLA logo is at the core of our brand identity. It is the most identifiable element of our brand. Our logo represents credibility and trust with its strong font and angles. The connectivity of the letters and the mix of curves represents the CLA family’s inclusive and welcoming culture. We work together as one so we can all experience success.

Clearspace

In order to preserve the integrity of our logo, it is important that no other logos, type, or other graphic elements infringe on its space. The minimum clearspace around the logo is equivalent to the space between the bottom of the logo and the bottom of the C. When possible, please use more white space than the minimum allowed.

Colors

Navy and white are the approved colors for the CLA logo. Use white on darker backgrounds. Navy should be used on bright, solid colors and over light areas of photos.

The logo can be used in black if black and white are the only colors available.

Logo Usage

There is freedom to use the logo to show the character and personality of our brand. Here are some examples of proper logo usage.

The logo can be used on any of the brand colors. A white circle can be used behind the navy logo when needed for more contrast on apparel.

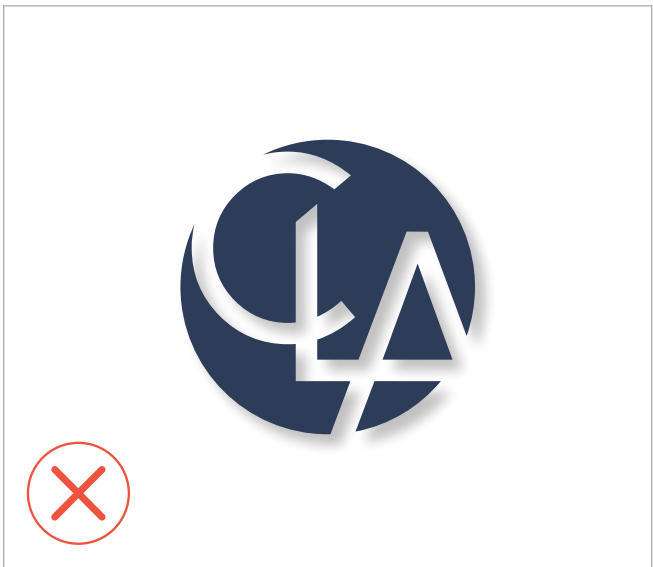

The logo can be used on photos. Take care to maintain proper contrast for visibility.

Improper Logo Usage

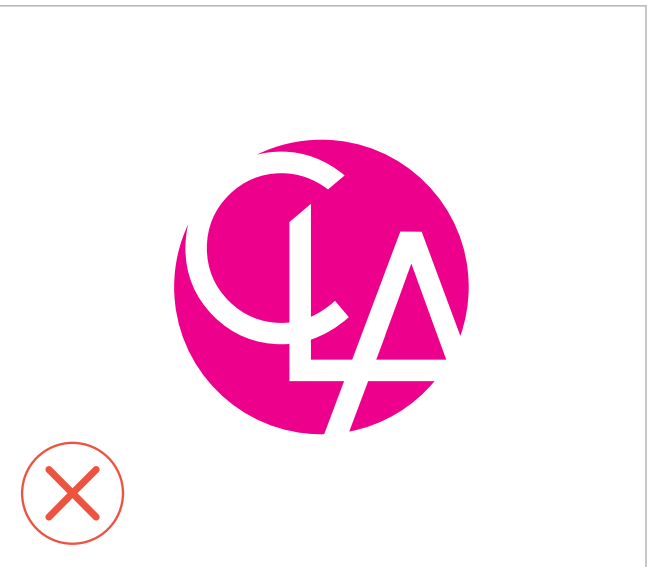

Because our logo is the foundation of our identity, it must be used intentionally and consistently. Avoid using the logo in any of the ways shown here.

Do not condense, stretch, rotate, or distort the logo in any way.

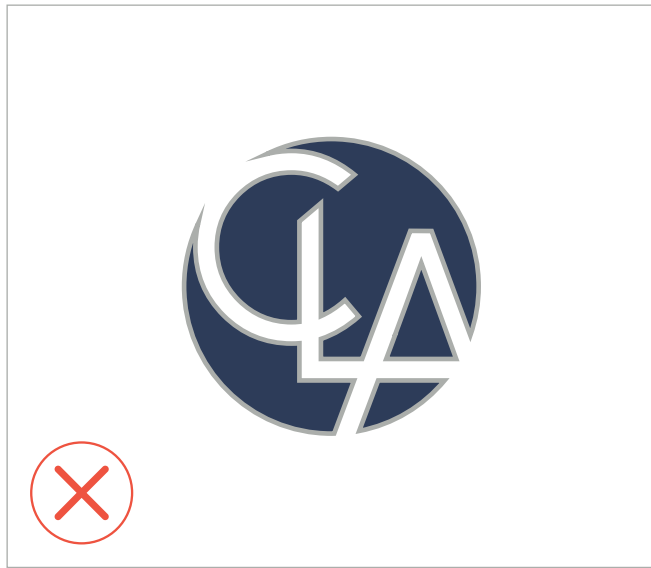

Do not add a drop shadow directly to the logo.

Do not use colors other than navy, white, or black.

Make sure the logo has enough contrast to be clearly visible.

Do not add stroke to the logo.

Do not add a color fill inside the letters of the logo.

The logo should always be a solid fill, not an outline.

Do not add a gradient to the logo.

Do not use the logo as part of the bike.

Logo + Tagline

Our logo and tagline combine to cement our brand and purpose together. This is who we are and what we stand for.

The tagline should never appear without the logo. When they are used together, the tagline should always appear to right of the logo, or centered below the logo — in one horizontal line. Always maintain adequate clear space around the logo.

Bike Usage

Externally, our bike is a graphic signature at the end of our TV commercial, in the footer of our documents, and in other key branded items. Internally, it remains a cultural icon across communications, events, presentations, and office spaces.

Bike model

There are two versions of the bike. Our bike model is a photorealistic rendering that was custom created for us. We also have a bike graphic that is a representative line art drawing of our bike model. No other bike images or symbols should be used. Please refrain from using both bikes in one layout.

You can crop in on the bike model to emphasize different parts to suit your layout design. This bike should be used on a solid background selected from the CLA brand color palette. Avoid using angular color overlays with this bike.

Note: The CLA bike should always appear riderless and moving to the right. The empty seat is an open invitation to come along with us on this journey.

Logo Lockups

There are three approved CLA logo lockups: logo with tagline and service descriptors, logo with tagline, and logo with service descriptors. The service descriptors clearly communicate who we are and what we do.

For smaller applications (such as narrow display ads), it's permissible to use the logo with tagline (and no service descriptors) or logo with service descriptors (and no tagline).

Wealth advisory note

Wherever we speak about CLA wealth advisory, we must include the following legal disclaimer as an annotated footer (or, for digital assets have a link through to CLAconnect.com):

Investing involves risk, including risk of loss. Investment advisory services are offered through CliftonLarsonAllen Wealth Advisors, LLC, an SEC-registered investment advisor. ©CliftonLarsonAllen LLP.

Typography

Two different fonts make up our brand typography. Museo Sans is a clean and modern font. We balance that with Georgia, a classic serif typeface. They work together and support our brand voice.

Museo Sans

The primary typeface is Museo Sans. It is a sturdy, low-contrast, geometric, highly legible sans serif typeface very well suited for any display and text use.

Georgia

The secondary typeface is Georgia. It was created as a serif typeface that would appear elegant but legible when printed small or on low-resolution screens. Even at small sizes the typeface exudes a sense of friendliness.

System fonts

For digital use where Museo Sans is unavailable, use the typeface Calibri. This applies to PowerPoint, Word, Excel, Outlook, and email. This will maintain consistency across all documents. When Calibri is not available, use the typeface Arial. Georgia is a system font and is safe for digital use.

Note: With the exception of italicizing our tagline, in all cases, reserve italics for standard use such as a publication name or source footnote.

Color Palette

Our core colors are riptide and navy. These colors anchor our brand palette. They embody the optimistic and forward-thinking vision of CLA.

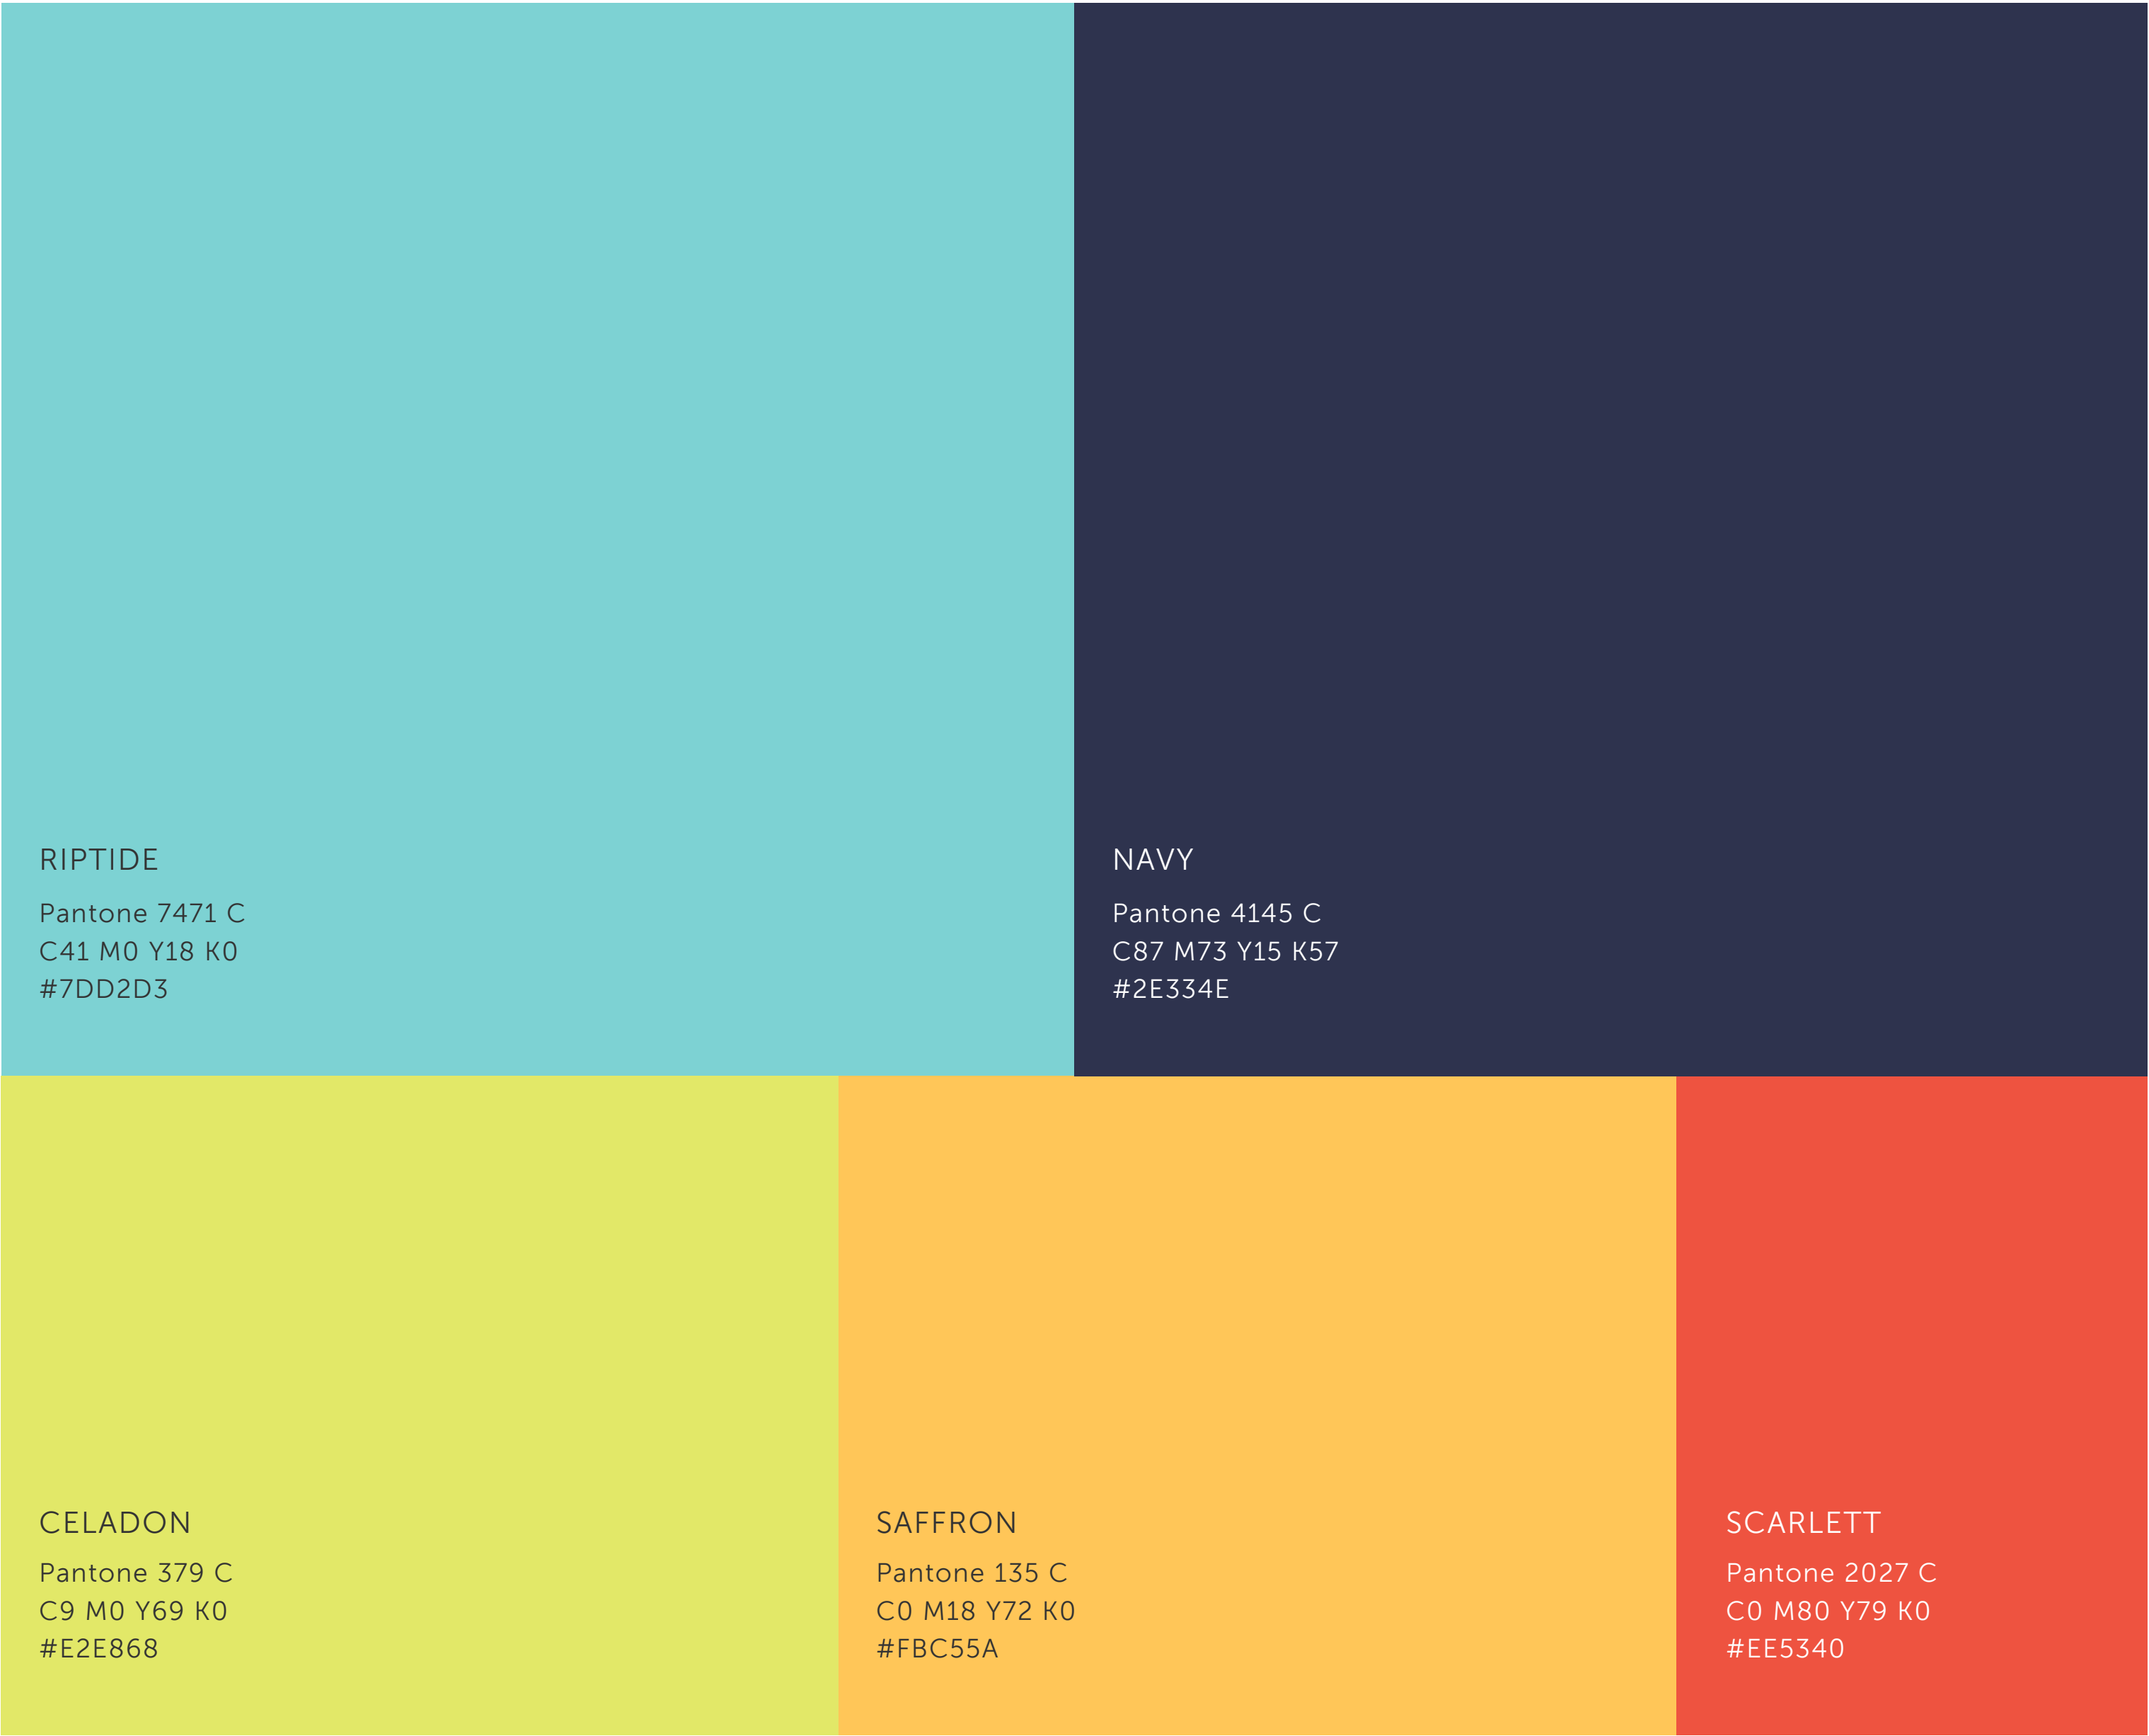

Secondary colors

We also have secondary colors — celadon, saffron, and scarlett — that complement and make riptide and navy shine.

Scarlett is generally reserved for smaller shapes and accent type.

Navy is often reserved to anchor or ground a visual. If navy is used in a colorful graphic, typically the text in the navy shape is the most critical for our foundational message.

Note: PMS colors are purposefully different from their corresponding HEX values for quality purposes. Please use the Pantone/CMYK values for print projects and the HEX values for web/digital projects.

Color Palette

The neutrals, tints and shades palette includes variations of our primary and secondary palette. This palette was created primarily to support digital designs, but it may also be used in print to complement the primary and secondary colors.

Neutrals

Charcoal and smoke, along with black and white, are neutral tones that ground the rest of the palette.

Tints and shades

A range of tints and shades of the primary and secondary colors is available to use when you need more flexibility and variety, particularly for infographics, charts and graphs. Tints and shades create depth and contrast but should be used sparingly relative to the primary and secondary colors. Tints and shades are also used for accessibility purposes.

Note: These are the only approved tints and shades to be used. Do not use lighter or darker shades of any other colors.

Color and Type

Our color palette is vibrant, yet in order to take advantage of this palette across all uses, including type, we recommend the following:

When using color for type on white or light backgrounds, use navy, charcoal, or an approved shade of riptide. We don't recommend applying riptide, celadon or saffron color to type.

Color and Type

Using text on colored backgrounds is common throughout the brand. When choosing foreground and background colors, always promote visibility and legibility by ensuring sufficient contrast. The background colors and text colors shown here are compliant and approved.

To check for sufficient contrast, use the WebAIM Color Contrast Checker.

Stock Photography

When choosing stock photography, select images that make the viewer feel as if they are part of a scene.

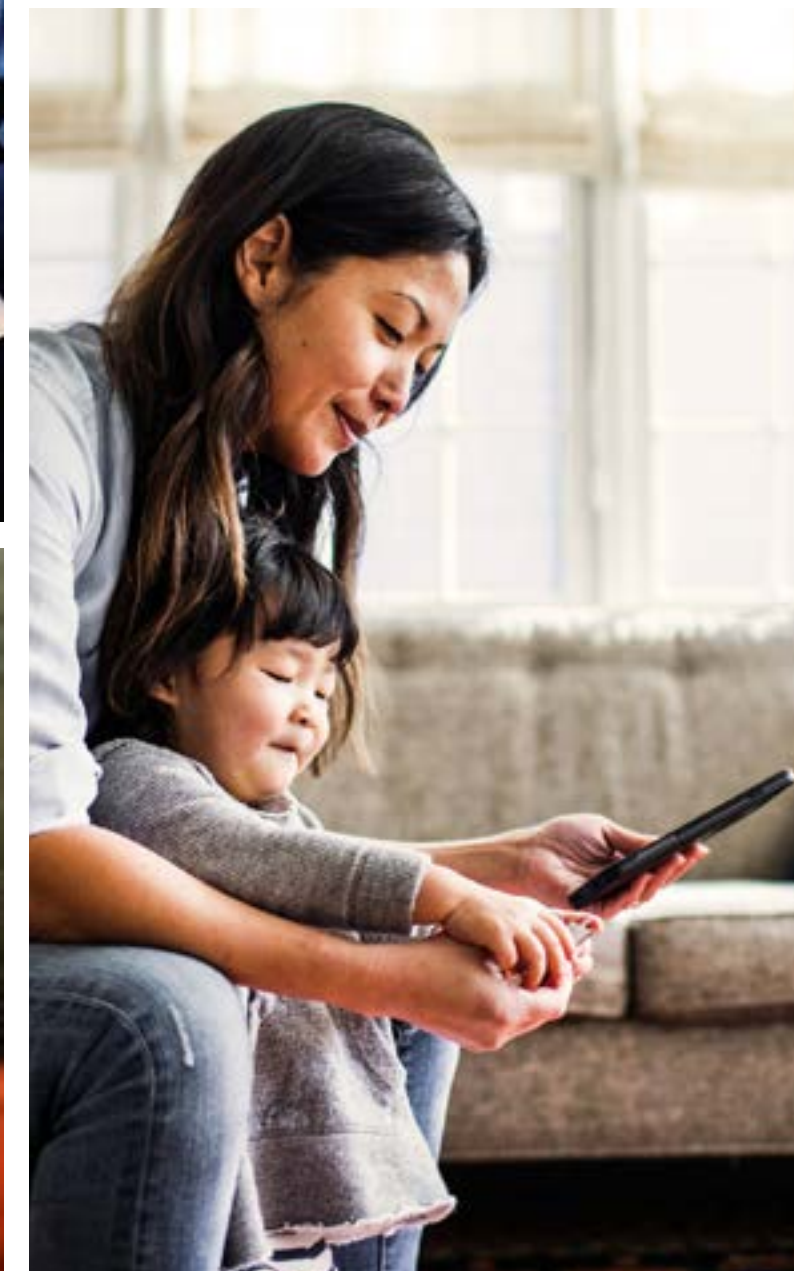

Our photography should reflect the humanity at the heart of our brand. Images should feel authentic and relatable, representing the real people and communities we serve.

We look for candid, natural photography that captures genuine interactions and everyday experiences. Moments should feel unposed and unfiltered, whether they're happening in an office, at home, or out in the world.

Look for images that are well lit. Try to select images with an overall warmer tone to make our photography look consistent across uses.

Look for ways to crop images that are slightly off center to add interest to stock photos.

CLA is committed to connection and belonging, so our images should reflect that too. Use images with a mix of race, age, gender, and ability.

Stock Photography

Use these guidelines when sourcing and using stock photography.

- Show diversity throughout a body of work — through age, race, gender, body types, and ability/disability.
- Consider the person of power in each image.
- Incorporate the human aspect as much as possible. Make sure photos feel authentic (setting, interactions, dynamic of people, etc.).
- Images should include more than one person to foster a sense of collaboration, community, and belonging. Where applicable, use images that reflect a CLA advisor engaged in meaningful discussion with another individual. Whether they are fully visible or implied within the frame, the intent is to convey connection and partnership, rather than isolation.
- Avoid cropping faces if possible.
- Select images that invite the viewer into the scene.
- Avoid unrealistic and overly emotional images (too happy, too excited, etc.).
- Look for a natural light source when possible.

What we want

What we don't want

Stock Photography

Some stock images will need to be adjusted before they fit with our brand.

If an image is too cool or dark, it can be adjusted in Photoshop before use. All images should be bright, with good contrast and a warm tone.

CLA Family Headshots

We use an environmental style of headshots instead of standard studio portraits.

We prefer to have photographers come to our CLA offices to capture our family members in their natural work environment. Following are some important guidelines to follow, based on how and where the headshots are intended to be used. Creating a consistent look in our headshots reflects positively on our brand image and work culture.

Social media

- CLA employees should wear business casual attire (CLA or other)
- Select an interior office environment for your shoot
- Shoot a 3/4 photo while the subject has more animated expressions (laughing, large smiles)
- Use a shallow depth of field to focus on the subject

CLA website, myCLA profile, and proposals

- CLA employees should dress in business attire
- Shoot the photo straight while your subject has a professional (low key) smile

Photographer notes

- Avoid poses that are flat to the camera, angle shoulders
- Provide jpg versions of final selections at sizes:
 - Original (as shot)
 - Medium (1500 px in longest dimension)
 - Small (400 px in longest direction)
 - Headshot crop (500 px x 500 px @ 72dpi)
- After selections are made, save to Y:\CLA Common\Administrative\Market Solutions\Share\Image Library_Professional headshots

Icons

Icons help people quickly identify and understand concepts. They are a powerful nonverbal communication tool.

A full set of icons is available in one-color and two-color options.

One color

One-color icons can be used in navy, charcoal, black, or white. Use navy on white, riptide, celadon, and saffron backgrounds. Use charcoal or black on white or light grey backgrounds. Use white on navy or scarlett backgrounds.

Two color

The icons can also be two color. The approved color combinations are navy and riptide. Navy should be the dominant color with riptide adding a pop of color. Use two-color icons on white, celadon, and saffron backgrounds.

Icon weight

The minimum line thickness is 2 pt. The line thickness should be scaled proportionally with the size of the icon.

See next page for usage examples.

VISUAL GUIDELINES

Icon Usage

Here is how to use the icons effectively and to brand standards.

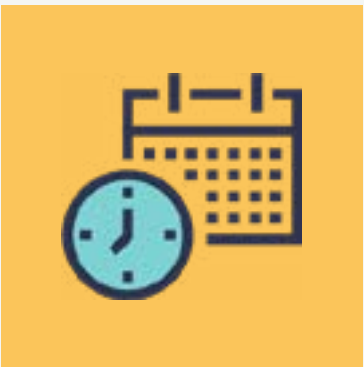

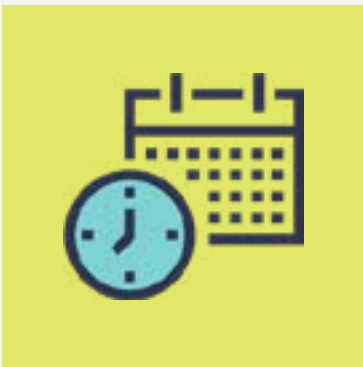

Use restraint when incorporating icons into layouts. Icons should be directly relevant to the information being communicated, and they should enhance content by creating visual interest — not distract from it. As a general rule, don't use more than two to five in a single layout.

Do not use icons as a central or large graphic element. Icons should only be used to complement text or other small design elements. They should not be used as the primary visual.

Scale icons proportionally. Icons should always remain at the same scale, in relation to each other, to create a consistent look.

Use the icons as designed without modifications. Do not edit any individual element of the icon or combine icons. If existing icons do not meet your needs, please contact the CLA marketing team.

Signage

Signs identify, inform, and direct. Due to their high visibility, they are one of the most important tools to establish and reinforce our brand identity.

Exterior signage

The CLA logo should be black on light-colored buildings and white on medium- to dark-colored buildings. The letters “CLA” should be the same color as the building but, if needed, can be darker or lighter for legibility. If the sign is lighted, the full logo (circle) should light up as white at night.

Signage

Legal name

The full legal name needs to appear somewhere inside or outside of our buildings: for example, the interior directory, suite signage, or entryway. The text should be set in Museo Sans 500. If not available, substitute with Calibri or another available sans serif font.

Additional text

Any additional text should be set in Museo Sans 500, unless the building requires a standard font. Follow logo space guidelines to ensure there is ample space around the logo.

Interior signage

The CLA logo should be displayed prominently in the interiors of our office buildings. The logo should be cut out of aluminum, or black or white vinyl and mounted to a wall or other vertical surface. The background behind the logo can be a solid color or a pattern. The background should have enough contrast for logo visibility.
